Difficulty of Care Payments IRS Notice 2014-7

If you provide care to an individual who has a physical, mental, or emotional handicap, the difficulty of care payments you receive are generally excluded from income. Review the information below to determine how to report these payments, if necessary, on your tax return.

According to the IRS website Certain Medicaid Waiver Payments May Be Excludable From Income:

On January 3, 2014, the IRS issued Notice 2014-7 addressing the income tax treatment of certain payments to an individual care provider under a state Home and Community-Based Services Waiver (Medicaid waiver) program. The notice provides that the IRS will treat “qualified Medicaid waiver payments” as difficulty of care payments excludable from gross income under § 131 of the Internal Revenue Code. For purposes of the notice, qualified Medicaid waiver payments are payments by a state, a political subdivision of a state, or a certified Medicaid provider under a Medicaid waiver program to an individual care provider for nonmedical support services provided under a plan of care to an individual (whether related or unrelated) living in the individual care provider’s home.

Exception: Difficulty of care payments are not excludable to the extent that the payments are for more than 10 qualified foster individuals who have not attained age 19 or 5 qualified foster individuals who have attained age 19.

Additional Information:

- Please understand, the Notice 2014-7 exclusion only applies to income tax. It does not address when these payments are subject to FICA tax (i.e. Social Security and Medicare taxes). The IRS has not yet provided guidance on this matter.
- Generally the payor should not issue a Form W-2 or 1099-MISC if they know the difficulty of care payments are excludable from your income. If you receive a Form W-2 or 1099-MISC reporting excludable difficulty of care payments, notify the payor that you are choosing to exclude the payments from your gross income. They should file and issue a corrected Form 1099-MISC or Form W-2c. Otherwise, use the information above to report the income and exclusion.
- The IRS is allowing taxpayers who received and reported payments in prior years to amend those prior year returns in order to exclude the income based on the new rules outlined in Notice 2014-7. Generally, for a credit or refund, you must file Form 1040X within 3 years (including extensions) after the date you filed your original return or within 2 years after the date you paid the tax, whichever is later.
